

Luiz Carlos Torres is Brazilian Navy Officer Hydrographer with Master Science Course in Marine Geology and Geophysics. He has worked at the Directorate of Hydrography and Navigation for more than 22 years, and in the last 12 years he has been working at the Brazilian Continental Shelf Project. He has participated on the presentation and discussions of the Brazilian submission continental shelf with the Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf at UN during de period 2004-2007 as a member of the Brazilian Delegation..

Ana Angélica Alberoni is graduate of geology and is a Lieutenant Commander from the Brazilian Navy. She has worked at the Directorate of Hydrography and Navigation for more than 18 years. She has been working at the Brazilian Continental Shelf Project for a claim of the extended continental shelf under UNCLOS (United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea) since 1993. She has participated on the presentation and discussions of the Brazilian submission continental shelf with the Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf at UN during de period 2004-2007 as a member of the Brazilian Delegation.

Izabel king Jeck is graduate of geology with Master Science Course in Marine Geology and Geophysics and is a Lieutenant Commander from the Brazilian Navy. She has worked at the Directorate of Hydrography and Navigation for more than 18 years. She has been working at the Brazilian Continental Shelf Project for a claim of the extended continental shelf under UNCLOS (United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea) since 1993. She has participated on the presentation and discussions of the Brazilian submission continental shelf with the Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf at UN during de period 2004-2007 as a member of the Brazilian Delegation.

Hélio Villena Heringer is graduate of Oceanography with Master Science Course in Marine Geology and Geophysics and Doctorate in Marine Geology. Is professor of Oceanography in University of the State of Rio de Janeiro. He has worked as collaborator to the Brazilian Continental Shelf Project for a claim of the extended continental shelf under UNCLOS (United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea) since 2002.